A.A. Round-Up to be Held Here in May

The Drayton Valley Group of Alcoholics Anonymous has announced plans for a Round-Up here on May 3rd and 4th that will be attended by delegates from a large part of the province.

The local group has programed events that will begin Saturday evening with a banquet followed by a meeting and dance. Sunday's program will involve meetings throughout the day that will commence with a breakfast gathering.

At 2:30 Sunday, May 4th, a public meeting is planned at the Legion Hall with an invitation extended to anyone interested from town and district. Especially welcomed are members of families who are living with, or close to anyone with a drinking problem.

The A.A. group also extends an invitation to people such as teachers, nurses, doctors, ministers, police and businessmen whose professions bring them in contact with drinking problems.

Guest speakers will be present at the public meeting from the Division of Alcoholism, Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Non.

Rotary Calendars Now Being Sold

Members of the Drayton Valley Rotary Club are now engaged in the sale of Rotary Calendars and extend an invitation to everyone to have their names listed on the calendar and by doing so, help the club with its many community projects.

Birthdays and anniversaries are listed on the calendars along with meeting dates of clubs and organizations. The calendars help many people keep track of important occasions among friends as well as meetings they should attend.

Funds raised by the Rotary Club are also well-spent in the community in maintaining the Rotary playground, youth citizenship activities and the annual project of providing Christmas hampers to needy families in the town and district.

Elsewhere in this paper is a form you may clip and use to have your family's birthdays listed, or you might contact the chairman of the Rotary calendar committee Howard Pickup at 542-3096.

APPLICATION DEADLINE EXTENDED

The deadline date for the return of the survey forms regarding the Drayton Valley Summer Hockey School has been extended for one week from April 15th to April 22nd. The original cut-off date has been extended because of the small number of survey forms returned during the Easter holidays.

Approximately 300 forms have been distributed to potential candidates for the summer school and to date the response has not been encouraging, however, with the return to school, boys are steadily dropping in completed forms at the Recreation Office.

About 140 interested persons are needed before progressing and finalizing arrangements for the hockey school which is planned for the last week in August at the Centennial Civic Centre. The school's chief instructor and director will be Clare Drake, Coach of the University of Alberta Golden Bears hockey team, and one of the top instructors in the game.

Anyone interested in the school should have their completed forms in the Recreation Office at the earliest possible opportunity, definitely before April 22nd. Further information about this proposed hockey school can be obtained from the Recreation Office. Phone 542-3327.

F.G.A. Considers Formation of Junior Wardens

At the next meeting of the Pembina Oilfield Fish and Game Association on Thursday, April 24th, plans will be discussed for the formation of a Junior Forest Warden branch in Drayton Valley under F.G.A. sponsorship.

Junior Forest Warden is a youth training program designed to meet the needs of young men who possess a great love of the outdoors coupled with a spirit of adventure. Particular emphasis is placed on forestry, wildlife, and conservation. The club is open to boys from 10 to 16 years of age.

A similar organization for girls is known as the Girl Forest Guards.

The movement started in British Columbia in 1930 and there are now several branches in Alberta, many in regions similar to Drayton Valley and the western area.

Considerably more information will be available at the Fish and Game meeting. However, the

Evergreen Rodeo Plans Going Ahead

Plans are going ahead for the big Evergreen Rodeo to be held in Drayton Valley on Friday and Saturday, August 15th and 16th. The show is billed as the "Biggest Amateur Rodeo in the West".

The rodeo grounds in the West Valley Park will be a major addition to the town recreation scene when completed. A grandstand capable of seating 3,000 people will be a large part of the undertaking along with fencing, corrals and infield grounds.

A parade on Friday morning will get the weekend's activities underway. Pancake breakfasts will be held both days, as will a western barbeque and midway. A grandstand show and chariot races will also be featured both evenings. Fireworks will highlight the Saturday evening performance.

Two dances, one for adults and one for teens, are scheduled for both evenings.

The rodeo, with Earl Kelly as co-ordinator, is a joint undertaking of Drayton Valley Elks, Lions, Legion and Rotary.

R.C.M.P. ATTEMPTING TO LOCATE UNKNOWN DRIVER

The Breton R.C.M.P. Detachment has requested the assistance of The Western Review in locating a man who is probably unaware that he should have reported to them.

At about midnight, April 8th, a vehicle with four people in it stopped about two miles north of Buck Creek on the Buck Creek road. One of the passengers of the vehicle got out of the rear seat, walked around in front of the parked car out into the path of an oncoming vehicle. The oncoming vehicle struck the girl and knocked her down.

This vehicle was travelling south at the time and the parked vehicle was facing north. The driver of the south-bound vehicle stopped and inquired about the injured girl. He was advised that the girl was all right and continued on his way south.

The girl's injuries were worse than was suspected at the time and she was subsequently admitted to the Drayton Valley Hospital for treatment.

The R.C.M.P. at Breton are presently investigating and state that it is quite possible that the driver of the vehicle that struck the girl is unaware that he is required to make a written report of the accident to the R.C.M.P.

The R.C.M.P. requests that he come forth voluntarily. If he does so no charges of failing to report an accident will be laid against him. Further it does not appear that the unknown driver is in any way at fault.

How Does Your Garden Grow?

By Green Thumbs

Last week I dealt with the selection of vegetable seeds that are considered to be most popular. This week I'll list a few that are not so widely used, but are well worth trying. Every gardener should "try out" one or two new kinds or varieties a year, as there may be a very tasty vegetable you're "missing out on", just because you've never tried growing or cooking it.

Somewhere in your vegetable garden, select a spot that will not need to be disturbed, when fall cultivating is due, plant asparagus seeds, but do not expect to get asparagus big enough to eat in the same season. It takes two or three years to obtain well established plants, that is why it should be planted and left undisturbed. It is quite rewarding during this waiting period, as greenery for flower arrangements, but take care not to cut too much foliage off any one plant.

If you need some shade on the patio, or want to grow something to climb a wall or fence, try scarlet runner beans. If started indoors, it is possible to harvest a good quantity of beans before frost. Broad beans are a welcome change, they need quite a bit of room, and some support if grown in an exposed area. The beans are shelled (like peas) before cooking. Any left over cooked broad beans are delicious served in salads. They can also withstand much more frost than other bean varieties.

Celery is well worth trying. Utah Green or Comell No. 6-19 are both good, you may also get seedlings from the nursery. Plant in a trench and "earth up" as the plant grows, so that the hearts become white and crisp.

Red cabbage is not widely known, but adds a good contrast in slaw and salad, and is also good for pickling, Red Acre is a good variety. Cress (or Pepper Grass) has a variety of uses, adds that something extra, to salads and sandwiches. During hot weather when salads are so much in demand, for a change try endive instead of lettuce, it's very easy to grow.

Spinach always causes a few comments, but is unsurpassed when picked and cooked within the hour, absolutely no campari-son to the canned varieties, so don't decide that spinach "isn't for you" until you've tried it fresh, a good early variety is the new Hybrid No. 7 or King of Denmark. Chard (either Swiss or Rhubarb) are also members of the spinach family, are equally as tasty and do not "go to seed" easily.

Midget tomatoes are very easily grown either in the garden, in window boxes or pots, and are ideal for that "something different" for salads and snacks. If you're not cramped for space in your garden, marrow and pumpkin put on quite a show and will provide many jars of preserves and pies too. The white Long Bush Marrow is a good variety. Small Sugar Pumpkin is ideal for pies, but if you want some for Halloween as well try Mammoth or Jumbo. Sweet Peppers are becoming more widely grown. and are planted and cultivated similar to tomatoes, King of the North is an early variety and is good for slicing and stuffing.

Next week - Herbs, etc.

Legislature Report

BY RALPH JESPERSEN, M.L.A.

The hearings by the Public Affairs Committee on the Bighorn Dam project came to a sudden end on Wednesday, April 9th after almost five long days of study. The request that no more outside witnesses be heard was a request made by the Opposition. All facets of the multi-use dam were brought to the fore. This very convincingly showed the many valuable aspects of the dam, plus the farsightedness of the Government in developing the project. The magnitude and long-term implications of Bighorn - the eventual diversion of water into the dry, parched lands of Southern Alberta, and other developments, would seem to be just the beginning of the implementation of the whole PRIME concept of water management.

Bill 44, The Act pertaining to the Bighorn Dam validating an agreement between the Province and Calgary Power Ltd. no doubt will be proceeded with. The position by the Leader of the Opposition, "we're not against the project, but we're not for it either", will certainly have to be changed and a definite stand be taken as the legislation goes into second and third reading.

A letter from C. W. Crump, Secretary of the Railway Transport Committee of the Canadian Transport Commission, was tabled in the Legislature this past week. The letter indicated that grain may soon be moving over the Alberta Resources Railway, and the rate set would no doubt be at a lower rate because of the shorter distance compared to the Northern Alberta Railway. The possible rate decrease may be as much as 5 cents per hundredweight.

The report of the Legislative Committee on Redistribution was also tabled this week. The report will be debated during this Session. The main recommendations include an increase in the number of constituencies in the Province to 75 from the present 65. The increase will be to accommodate the urban areas, in other words the ten new constituencies will be in the urban (city) area. There is little doubt that the boundaries of some of the rural constituencies will be changed, if the recommendations in this report are accepted.

EDITORIAL COMMENT

Can an Alcoholic be Helped?

Thousands of alcoholics can and do recover, but rarely, if ever, without some sort of help. The biggest hurdle is for the individual to recognize that the problem exists and that help is needed. Once he is convinced of this, he can be helped, if he wants to be. Usually, of course, family or friends are the first ones to be aware of the problem. It is within the circle of the family that alcoholism creates the greatest difficulties and the most intense turmoil.

Husbands and wives of alcoholics are often at a loss to understand what alcoholism really is. Feeling certain that the drinking is deliberate, they may become ashamed, confused, angry, and frequently helpless. But alcoholism cannot generally be successfully handled by family members alone without guidance from outside. While it is natural for a worried family to try to reason, coax, and even threaten, this so-called home treatment alone is seldom effective.

Drinking alone or in secret, drinking in the morning and loss of memory after drinking are some of the serious warning signals that indicate that help should be sought urgently. Fortunately, there are places to turn for help-and taking this first constructive step is the most important thing a person can do to help not only the alcoholic but the whole family as well.

Who's the Employer!

A man applying for a job asked the interviewer whether the company would pay for his hospital insurance. The interviewer said the worker would have to pay for it, but it was deducted from his cheque.

"Last place I worked the company paid for it," he said.

"Did they pay for your life insurance too?" the interviewer asked.

"Sure they did," the man said. "Not only that, but we got unlimited sick leave, severance pay, three weeks' vacation, Christmas bonus, coffee breaks, etc."

"Then why did you leave such a perfect place?" the interviewer asked.

"The company folded," the man replied.

The past is only good for what we have learned from it; the future for what we do with it.

THE WESTERN REVIEW

Drayton Valley, Alberta
April 16, 1969

The panel of photos above show some of the activities enjoyed by members of Air Cadet Squadrons. Available to cadets is the opportunity to attend summer camps, learn to fly, make an exchange visit to another country, or receive an educational scholarship.

Nation-wide Air Cadet Week To Be Observed April 20 - 26

OTTAWA -- The week of April 20th to 26th, which marks the Twenty-Eighth Anniversary of the Air Cadet League of Canada, will be observed as National Air Cadet Week, it was announced recently by League President, F.A.J. Laws.

In communities throughout the country, 367 Air Cadet squadrons will mark the special 28th Anniversary Week.

The main purpose of Air Cadet Week is to familiarize the public with the League's work in providing aviation and citizenship training for more than 30,000 cadets across Canada. In some communities, sponsoring committees of the League will also campaign for funds during this special week.

In making his announcement, Mrs. Laws called attention to the following facts:

Since the movement was founded in 1941, over 230,000 young Canadians have received Air Cadet training; 140,000 have attended summer camps; some 7200 cadets have been taught to fly; 1251 top cadets have made goodwill exchange trips abroad; 3690 cadets have attended leadership courses; and a large number of cadets have received educational scholarships having a total value of more than $70,000.

Mr. Laws pointed out that the aim of Air Cadet training is to build better Canadian citizens by encouraging boys to invest their spare time in activities that will be of future benefit both to themselves and to their home communities.

Wood as a Feed

Two federal government scientists have developed a process that will change wood into cattle feed -- a relatively cheap and good feed at that.

Dr. David Heaney, an animal nutrition expert with the Canada Department of Agriculture's Animal Research Institute, and Dr. Fred Bender, head of the chemistry section of the Forest Products Laboratory operated by the Department of Fisheries and Forestry, have been able to change poplar into a feed equal in digestibility to medium quality hay.

Dr. Heaney says the wood could take the place of hay or forages but would have to be supplemented by nitrogen (perhaps urea), minerals and vitamins to provide a balanced diet.

HEALTH UNIT NOTES

"Your Dental Health"

One of a series of articles from the Edson Health Unit.

Our topic this week is dental caries (tooth decay). This disease is the leading public health problem in our world today. Tooth decay, may begin soon after the teeth first appear in a baby's mouth.

What causes tooth decay? Live bacteria living in the mouths of everyone gather their food nourishment from sugars (carbohydrates) we place in our mouths. These sugars are found in many foods - pastry, candies, soft drinks, cookies and even white bread.

The living bacteria digest the sugars and form a strong acid which destroys out teeth. This acid causes the brown stain and softened teeth we see in dental caries.

If we leave sugar foods sticking to our teeth for long periods of time the bacteria which live in our mouths have a 'feast' of the sugar delivered to them. The bacteria produces a flood of acids which in turn decay out teeth.

Therefore, we see the reason for tooth brushing - the sugar must be removed before the bacteria can digest them. While brushing, we may also remove so many of the bacteria themselves.

It is good to "Brush Your Teeth The Way They Grow". That is, always brush with an up and down motion of the sides (outside and inside) of your teeth. On the tops of your teeth, a back and forth motion, is o.k. We shall say more about brushing in three weeks.

There are millions of live germs living in our mouths just waiting to cause dental disease - let's not give them a chance.

EVANSBURG NEWS

If this weather keeps up, by the time this column appears in the paper, there won't be much snow to proclaim that we are at the end of another winter season. Right now, we are in the midst of many muddy tracks across the porch and floors when little feet tend to come in without removing their rubber boots.

The Styal local of the FUA met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Tucker for the usual monthly meeting on Tuesday, April 8th. Sixteen members were present to discuss changing farm policies and also to finalize plans for the annual sub district five convention to be held in Wildwood on the 12th. The date of the usual monthly meeting for this organization has been changed to take place on the third Tuesday of each month rather than on the second Tuesday. The next meeting will be held in the Hollysprings Community Centre.

A farewell party was put on by members of the community for Mr. and Mrs. L. Corkery who are moving to a new location. Mr. and Mrs. Corkery had been owners of the drug store for twelve years in the village. They will make their new home in Lacombe where Mr. Corkery has business interests.

Mrs. DeJong entertained members of the Happy Hour Bible Club at her home during the Easter holidays. The children went to the DeJong home where they were entertained with games and music as well as having been given a good time coloring Easter eggs. At any rate those of my boys who attended reported a super duper time thanks to Mr. and Mrs. DeJong.

B and F Sales, John Deere dealers, held a very successful school on combine and tractor operating on April 7th. This event took place right in the B and F Sales shop where slides and a discussion on the operation of these machines took place. Helping with the demonstration was one of the local boys, Gilbert Greenwood who is an employee of John Deere and works from the Edmonton office. About 35 farmers from the area attended the day long school. Lunch and afternoon coffee was served to those attending. Mrs. Brown wishes to say a special thank you to those two ladies, who helped her, Mrs. Marlene Nelson and Mrs. Phyllis Tufty. From the farmers' point of view this school was well worth attending as it showed the farmers information on the repair and use of their machines.

The ladies of the gymkhana club held a successful tea and bake sale on April 5th. This weekend they are holding a cabaret dance in the Legion Hall and anyone is welcome to attend.

National Walk Day On May 3rd

Ottawa - A National Walk Day has been declared for Saturday, May 3rd, and many communities across Canada are planning "Miles for Millions" walks on that day to aid the poor and hungry in the world's developing countries.

There are indication that as many as 500,000 Canadians may be on the march, all of them supported by sponsors who pledge to donate anywhere from 10 cents up for each mile walked.

"We're anxious to hear from all communities that want to organize walks and we can supply them with information and other help," said Elizabeth Kane, secretary of the National Walk Committee, which is made up of representatives of 14 major charitable agencies in Canada working in the field of international aid.

Highvale Mine to Supply New Sundance Power Plant

CALGARY -- In his annual report to the shareholders, A.W. Howard, President of Calgary Power Ltd., announced that the generation of electrical energy by the Company's system during 1968 reached 4,555 million kilowatt-hours, an increase of 13.6% over 1967's 4,009 million kilowatt-hours.

Gross revenue from operations in 1968 was $46.5 million, up $4.5 million or 11% above the revenue for the preceding year. Consolidated operating expenses rose $2.4 million to $31.3 million. The Company's operating income showed a healthy $2.1 million or 16% gain over 1967, reflecting the strong growth in sales to the oil and gas industry and other industrial customers.

Interest rates reached new highs, resulting in increased interest charges of $1.9 million over the previous year. Net income increased by $226,000 over 1967.

Reflecting the foregoing factors earnings per common share in 1968 amounted to $1.64 as compared to $1.59 in 1967. Four dividends of 20 cents each were declared on each of the 5,250,000 common shares outstanding. The balance of 84 cents per share amounting to $4.4 million, was retained for use in the business.

Capital expenditures have increased in each of the last five years, from $21.2 million in 1964 to $30.7 million for 1968. Major projects carried out under the Company's 1968 program included the following:

* Continuation of construction of the Sundance Steam Electric Plant.
* Continuation of the construction of a permanent spillway section at the Brazeau Dam, to be completed in mid-1969.
* Further expansion of the Company's high voltage transmission system by the construction of 246 miles of 240 KV line and 38.5 miles of 138 KV line.
* Completion of 240 KV/138 KV substations at Janet and Red Deer, construction of four new 138 KV substations, and the provision of increased substation and distribution system capacity at various locations throughout the service area.

The Company's generating capability increased to 1,249,000 kilowatts with the addition of the No. 4 unit at the Wabamun Steam Electric Plant, which was placed in commercial service in March, 1968.

As a result of the rapid rise in the rate of load growth during the past year, the commissioning date for the first 286,000 kilowatt unit at the new Sundance Steam Electric Plant will be advanced to early January, 1971.

To supply the fuel requirements of the Sundance plant, expected to have an ultimate capacity in excess of 1,000,000 kilowatts, Calgary Power will open up a new coal mining operation on the south side of Lake Wabamun, to be known as the Highvale Mine. The coal reserves controlled by the Company in the Highvale Mine have been established to be in excess of 100,000,000 tons. The mine is particularly well suited to open pit operation, using conventional strip-mining equipment.

Regarding strip-mining, the Alberta Coal Mines Regulation Act and the Surface Reclamation Act require the reclamation of the surface of areas from which the coal has been extracted. In this respect, large areas are now in various stages of surface reclamation at the Company's Whitewood Mine, which supplies coal to the present Wabamun Steam Electric Plant.

As part of its construction program to meet its growing load, the Company, under an agreement with the Province, proposes to complete the construction of the Bighorn Hydro-Electric Project by 1972, or possibly 1973, at an estimated cost of $30 million. The project is located on the North Saskatchewan River, about eighty miles upstream from Rocky Mountain House.

THE PAWN SHOP

BY REV. DALE MOHR

There's a pawnshop on the corner of Procrastination Avenue and Indifferent Street. Business? Booming! Utterly fantastic! The Proprietor? The Old Man himself.

A lot of people have swung some big deals at this pawnshop. Others go back again and again. The bargain counter is near the side entrance that leads from Indifference Street. The people who don't give a care will sell their souls for any heap of junk. But people are lined up, three deep around the big brassy entrance on Procrastination Avenue. Here is where men higgle and haggle for the best possible price. Here they pawn their integrity, purity, self-respect, honesty, reputation, time life, and their soul. Everyone always promises to pay off the loan before death day.

You don't believe it do you. There is no pawnshop. On no? People peddle their souls (often in little dribbles) everytime they postpone repentance to sell themselves out to lesser goals. "Plenty of time", that's the motto of the devil's own pawnshop.

"What shall it profit a man if he gain the whole world and lost his own soul?" Jesus said that. He should know. The devil offered him the whole world, but He refused to sell out. He gave His life in fact, just to bail people out of hock. He stands ready to buy you back, to set you free. Isn't it time you got off Procrastination Avenue.

Fort Saskatchewan Lawyer Heads Western Fund Drive

Mrs. Darlene Wong, well-known Fort Saskatchewan barrister and solicitor, has accepted chairmanship of the Three Alberta Universities Capital Fund Campaign for Western Alberta.

Mrs. Wong, as chairman of the West Region, is one of 3,000 volunteers who are working on the Three Alberta Universities Fund. The fund has an objective of $25,000,000 which is needed to help finance capital projects at the Universities of Alberta, Calgary, and Lethbridge during the next five years.

Projected heavy enrolment over the five-year period demands enlarged facilities over and above those which will be made available under provincial government financing. In fact, capital requirements at the three universities will reach $235,000,000 by 1972.

The provincial government will provide a basic $185,000,000 and will also match dollar-for-dollar, money raised during the capital fund. This actually means that $50,000,000 is being raised.

No preliminary goals have been set for any region, however, early indications are that Albertans are willing to financially support their universities.

Assisting Mrs. Wong in the West Region are: Dr. Larry Bilan, General Practitioner, Sherwood Park; Len Corkery, Pharmacist, Evansburg; J.P. Marshall, Assistant Superintendent of Schools, Edson; and Con Buzunis, Project Engineer, North Western Pulp and Power Limited, Hinton.

Each of these people has voluntarily agreed to see the campaign carried out within the next couple of months. Anyone wishing to help with the campaign or to donate to the campaign should contact one of these people.

Abandoned Cars in Alberta Would Cover One Acre of Ground To Height of 260 Feet

A monument 260' high, equivalent to a 26-story building, covering one acre of land, represents a conservative estimate of the volume of derelict automobiles tossed in Alberta's scrap heap.

The disposal of these abandoned vehicles, rated at six to ten per cent of each year's registrations, poses a special problem for the Environmental Health Services Division, Alberta Department of Health. The methods for final disposal are currently under review, by the Division's Solid Waste Disposal committee, in consultation with representatives of municipalities, the Auto Wreckers Association, scrap metal salvage firms, scrap metal processors and the steel companies.

At present, stripping of vehicles for saleable parts, including the more valuable metals found in transmissions, drive shafts and engine blocks, has left the unwanted bodies and chassis, which produce an average of 1,200 pounds of metal apiece. This represents 55 million pounds annually. The salvage of this huge amount of metal from car bodies has met with varying success depending on markets and the efficiency of the recovery process. The main factor to contend with is the economic feasibility of collection and reduction of the body and chassis into a useable form of scrap metal.

Because of these factors, alternative provisions have been made to meet the immediate problem. Under Provincial Board of Health regulations, municipal authorities may dispose of unwanted, abandoned vehicles in specially allocated areas of approved landfill sites.

LARGE SEED IMPORTANT

An Alberta pedigreed seed grower says it could be important economically for the commercial grower to plant large seed.

Harold McLaughlin, President of the Alberta Branch, Canadian Seed Growers' Association, indicated that large seed yielded 14 bushels per acre more than standard size seed in tests he conducted last year.

The Spruce Grove farmer, admitting that his was a severe test, said, "I separated the top 20 bushels from a lot of 200 bushels of No. 1 registered Conquest Barley".

He planted the 20 bushel lot on 15 acres beside the field where he sowed the remaining 180 bushels. During the growing season, there was no visual indication that one was superior to the other, Mr. McLaughlin said.

However, when 10 square yard plots were meticulously harvested from each crop, the large seeded plot was found to have outyielded the other by 14 bushels per acre.

Although this confirms results of tests conducted at the Lacombe Research Station with barley, Mr. McLaughlin says he will conduct tests again this year.

Special Cases Committee Formed for Students

Students, their teachers, principals or parents, who feel a student's educational future is jeopardized by scholastic regulations, or who feels his school career needs readjustment, may appeal to the "Special Cases Committee" of the Division of Instruction of the Alberta Department of Education.

The "Special Cases Committee", composed of three officials from the Department of Education, reviews all written requests from Alberta students of all categories, who wish to have their scholastic records checked, particularly if they feel they have been denied acceptance to an educational institution or specific student course.

Acting as an "ombudsman" for the student, the committee may review such cases as: students who are unable to attend high school or university because of their record, that is falling just short of requirements, for example, students who may write four good papers and fall short on the fifth, may request review of the fifth exam; students who think the examination papers did not measure their scholastic potential; and students who may not be able to write exams because of being handicapped, and are deserving of special assistance. Students who fall short of regulations to post-secondary institutions are automatically reviewed.

In one case, a student who was only able to take a vacation at exam time, had the "Special Cases Committee" work out a plan whereby the captain of the ship on which he was a passenger, gave him the exam.

All requests for assistance and review of scholastic records are quickly and carefully looked after by the three member education committee.

TAX TIPS

This income tax column has been prepared by the Edmonton District Office, Department of National Revenue, Taxation. The questions used are common ones, and the answers usually straightforward. However, unusual circumstances sometimes alter the answer. If your question isn't answered here, or in the Income Tax Guide, phone 424-0251 in Edmonton or write National Revenue, Taxation Edmonton for free advice.

1. Q. We had our first child last month. How do I go about having my tax deductions changed, or do I need to do anything?

A. A child will affect your exemption status and if you would like this reflected in the amount of tax deducted from each paycheck, you should notify your personnel office and they will have you fill out a new TD1 Form. Or, if your prefer, you can continue with your dedeuctions as they are and enjoy the benefits of a new exemption when you file next year's income tax return.

2. Q. I have heard that I can deduct the cost of my safety deposit box and the fee my tax consultant charges for making out my return. Is this correct?

A. There is no provision of the Income Tax Act which permits the deduction of these charges, as such. However, if your security holdings would warrant a safety deposit box, the box rental would be deductible from your investment income and, if you normally require legal or accounting advice in connection with your business, the tax consultant charges would be deductible as a business expense.

3. Q. Is workmen's compensation subject to income tax?

A. Workmen's compensation is not subject to income tax.

4. Q. I won a cash prize for a suggestion I made to my employer last year. Is this money taxable?

A. Yes, this awared would be considered to be related to your employment and thus form part of your income.

5. Q. My wife works part-time and has to hire a babysitter when she does. Can she deduct the cost of the babysitter from her income?

A. No. The cost of a babysitter is not an allowable deduction from your wife's income.

6. Q. I am over 70 and not eligible to make contributions to CPP or receive benefits from it. Do I require a Social Insurance Number (SIN) when I file my tax return?

A. Yes. Originally it was required only by those taxpayers making contributions to CPP but now it is required by all those who file an Income Tax Return. The forms required to apply for a SIN are available from any Post Office or District Taxation Office.

7. Q. What is the situation taxwise if I sell land with standing crop?

A. If the Agreement specifies an amount for the standing crop, that amount is income to the vendor and an expense to the purchaser when paid (assuming parties are filing on a cash basis).

If the Agreement does not specify an amount for standing crop, then no portion of the selling price is attributable to the standing crop as far as the purchaser and the vendor are concerned.

Safety: Cornerstone of the Gas Industry

Like the human body, Canada is fed through a system of arteries. And they are not all roads and railways. If you were to peel away the many surfaces of this nation, you would find the most extraordinary and intricate arrangements of arteries and veins ever constructed by man for his survival. Resting beneath highways, countryside and city streets are mazes of ingeniously engineered electrical cables, water mains and gas pipelines. It would be calamitous to imagine what would happen if they were to disappear.

Natural gas alone travels through over 40,600 miles of pipeline and utility mains across Canada to reach more than one-and-one-half million customers in homes, commerce and industry. Large quantities of this clean, versatile, economical fuel have become essential to our country. Even in its simplest function — heating of homes — natural gas is crucial. It supplies one-fifth of Canada's energy needs. And it must all be transported silently and safely through the industry's system of pipelines.

In order to keep the pipelines safe, Canada's gas companies maintain a high calibre of service and carefully supervised safety activities. Such activities include inspection, maintenance and replacement of street mains, service pipes, valves, meters and regulators; installation of additional valves for better control; research and development in leak detection; protective coatings, improved pipe and special projects related to local conditions.

The gas industry has always been aware of the value and need of safe operation. First of all, it's good business. If services were interrupted, customers would turn to other energy sources. If gas lines were allowed to leak, profit would be diminished. If corrosion were not corrected, the cost of borrowing would increase. If utility properties became unsafe, insurance rates would soar. But most important, safe operation of natural gas transmission and distribution lines is a social responsibility. It is vital to gas company employees and the millions of people they serve, to the thousands of communites and cities and to the growth and health of the nation.

Study Uncovers Facets of Beef Cattle Production

The three important facets of beef production are regular reproduction, rate and efficiency of gain and carcass merit according to a long term study at the University of Alberta.

The experiments are part of a beef breeding project done by Dr. R. T. Berg, animal geneticist, and Dr. L. W. McElroy, Chairman, Department of Animal Science, University of Alberta. When Drs. Berg and McElroy started this project, not enough was known about reproduction and carcass. Now the two scientists have detailed studies concerning these factors and have spent years working on carcass merit -- the proportion of lean, fat and bone -- and have worked on this into a selection program.

A good carcass, Dr. Berg said in an interview, ultimately might contain 70 percent lean meat, 18 percent fat and 12 percent bone. Composition is most important but so are quality factors such as tenderness, flavor and juiciness. A great deal of work in eating quality is being done in the United States and Britain, but Alberta is not yet deeply involved in this particular aspect.

However, Dr. Berg said, it is known that tenderness is most important and that younger animals are more tender. Tenderness is also determined by breed, but it has not yet been determined which breed is most tender. Perhaps a better approach would be to look for variations within breeds.

Flavor is influenced by age with the more intense flavor being associated with older animals "People feel the young stuff is less flavorful," Dr. Berg said. But the economics of the situation dictate that stockmen will be marketing animals at a young age which will mean a sacrifice of some flavor. The reason for slaughtering young animals is because young animals put on weight more efficiently and there is less waste fat.

In addition, there is less maintenance costs against young animals. Beef cattle, Dr. Berg said, are getting like the poultry world where "young broilers are replacing old roosters". He said he feels that the consumer will get more tendemess, less fat in meat and will sacrifice flavor a little. Flavor may in the future be added by processing and cooking.

Drs. Berg and McElroy have done a lot of work in the last few years to see what factors affect reproduction in cattle. Factors uncovered were winter feeding and maintenance, flushing -- feeding a little heavier before breeding.

Discussing the wintering performance of cows, progress has been made on what it takes to winter a cow in relation to her weight and condition in the fall. A certain amount of stored fat is needed to act as insulation for the cow and an energy source if it is needed. It was found that a daily ration of about 4.5 pounds of grain, 10 pounds of hay and five pounds of straw from January to March will usually winter a cow satisfactorily. This should be modified, of course, depending on how severe the winter is.

Discussing cow reproduction and production, it was found cows should be gaining prior to breeding and should be in reasonable condition at breeding time. Special problems arise if the cow is a heavy milker as she might put her feed into milk rather than into better physical condition for breeding. Dr. Berg is now working with heavy milking cows -- Holsteins -- trying to see if these problems can be over come.

The growth performance of calves is of economic value. The university scientists did large-scale milking experiments, milking several hundred range cows which showed that milk production has the greatest effect on calf weights. The calves have genetic potential to grow which is important. If breeders select big calves, they get the genetic potential to grow and be heavy milk producers.

Dr. Berg and his associates are trying to develop a new breed with a different concept. In future, breeders will be more concerned with a given cattle population and its particular merits rather than a pedigree type purity.

If a population of animals is highly productive, it will probably find a use in the cattle raising industry, even though it will not fit everyone's definition of a breed. The university-developed herd paid no attention to non-economic factors such as color, horns, type fads. So these cows are not uniform in appearance.

Following is the preamble of A.A. and Al-Non family groups.

"There are no hopeless situations. There are only men who have grown hopeless about them"
